The Rider brings a new expression of refined, design-forward residential life. Its 12-storey profile rises with confidence; bold lines, disciplined form, unmistakably modern in silhouette.

At ground level, planned retail enlivens the street, anchored by a striking full-height photography installation that transforms the façade into an engaging visual experience.

Above, a resort-style rooftop unfolds across the skyline, with spaces designed for swimming, socialising, unwinding: more private club than standard amenity deck.

Residents may enjoy access to a private beach club experience through third-party partners, subject to availability and separate terms, completing a lifestyle that is elevated, deeply considered and unmistakably The Rider.
